SPONSORSHIP

The 5th Annual AAAE Air Quality Conference is the preeminent aviation air quality conference for the U.S. aviation industry. This year's conference, entitled Aviation in a Climate Changing World, presents a comprehensive overview of the issues and regulatory requirements facing airports while offering interactive sessions and case studies that will enhance attendees' job performance and knowledge base. Speakers will include prominent representatives from the FAA, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), airports and other aviation sectors.

A significant way to demonstrate your company's commitment to the aviation industry is by becoming a sponsor of this event. By doing so, you will be expressing your company's dedication to promoting excellence through education. Your support also will provide you with maximum exposure at the best possible time.

As a sponsor of the conference, your company will be recognized in the following manner: a thank-you sign prominently displayed in the conference registration area, website exposure on the AAAE websites and a listing in the final conference program. All sponsors receive verbal recognition during the event. Depending on the level of sponsorship, sponsors receive at least one free delegate registration and an option for a table top display.
